Rutger Termohlen

Rozemarijnstraat 2

Mon Aug 28 14:51:26 GMT+02:00 2017

Bunker Tattoo is a well known name in Breda. In 2017 the tattoo shop celebrated their 16th birthday, the perfect opportunity for an homage. Blind Walls Gallery challenged the team to draw several tattoo flashes that could be made into a mural. Artist and tattooist at Bunker, Rutger Termohlen, was offered the chance to paint the flashes on a wall in large scale.

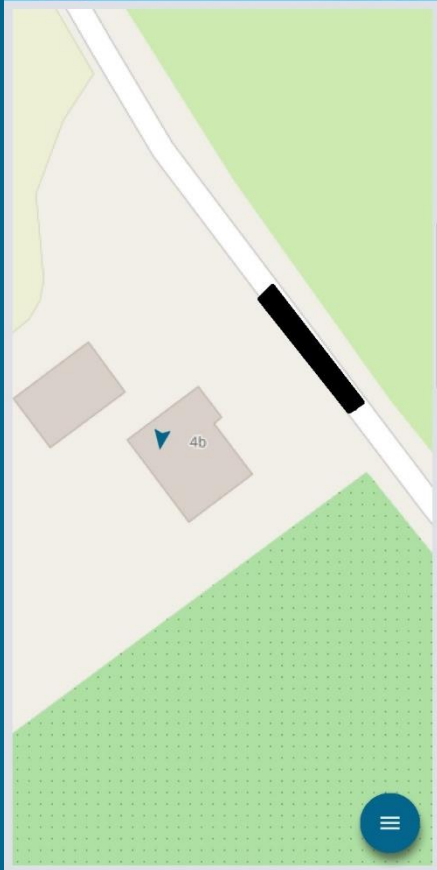

Throughout it's history, the Rozemarijnstraat (street) has had a bad reputation. The street was even considered one of the dirtiest streets in Breda in 1839. Around that time tattooists or people with tattoos were mostly associated with bad people and criminal activities. So this street is the perfect location for Rutger and the Bunker Team to change people's minds once and for all!

Zenk One

Godevaert Montensstraat 12 Sun Jan 18 05:34:23 GMT

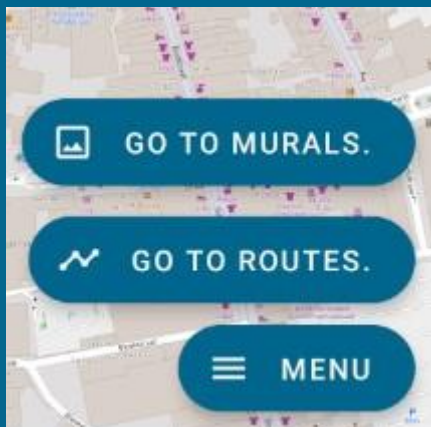

The mural is a tribute to Godevaert Montens, mayor of Breda from 1580-1581 and 1596-1602. He is known for his supposed heroic conduct on June 28, 1581. During the fury of Houtepen he led a group of Breda citizen soldiers into battle against the Spanish troops. These troops have violently pillaged, killed and looted. Volunteers were needed to clean up the remains of 400-500 dead civilians.

Robin Nas aka Zenk One (NL) became well-known for his realistic portraits that he later started mixing with a more graphic style. He now travels the world to make tall wall paintings in his characteristic style.
